Peter GUNN (Page 230c of the book)...

Late in 2012, Peter GUNN took up a position as Associate Professor of Forensic Biology at the University of Technology Sydney...

“After over ten years at NSW Police as Senior Operations Manager of Forensic Biology, I decided it was time for a late-life career change. Being involved in the investigations of the Bali bombings, the 2004 Tsunami, plus about 65 homicides (mainly my staff), I decided it was time for a different set of challenges.

I was the first person in the southern hemisphere to perform DNA testing in criminal matters (way back in the late 1980s), but things have moved on, and it’ was time for me to try catching up on the science before I am too old!

I am enjoying the teaching role of the position, and am looking forward to undertaking some serious research into various areas that are not directly related to “catching crooks.”

Meanwhile Madeline and I continue to age gracefully”.
